It happened in an instant. Six-year-old Grace was playing with a yoga rope with her sister last February when the rope's handle crashed through her glasses, embedding glass in her eye. What followed was a "lot of pain and agony," says her mother, Kimberley, and three surgeries to fix the severe damage. Grace's eye has since healed beyond expectations, a process that was helped by the outstanding skills of her SickKids surgeon, Dr. Kamiar Mireskandari, and by the leading-edge facilities in the renovated ophthalmology clinic. Grace likes the space too. "It's kid friendly," says Kimberley.

SickKids operates the largest paediatric eye centre in North America. And now, thanks to donors, it also has the most advanced one.

More than $2.3 million in renovations were completed at the SickKids Ophthalmology Clinic this year – increasing the number of examination rooms, improving the design of the waiting room and making the sedation room more accessible to patients and doctors. Among the donors were the Lions Clubs of Multiple District “A” and Lions Clubs International Foundation.

“Vision is a child’s first point of contact with the world,” says Dr. Agnes Wong, SickKids Ophthalmologist-in-Chief. “They deserve a chance to see it through healthy eyes.”

The renovations mean children in need can now be treated more efficiently, quickly and safely. They also mean that SickKids can continue to accommodate new cutting-edge equipment as it becomes available.

More than 17,000 children visit the Ophthalmology Clinic every year, and 1,000 surgeries take place there. That number is now growing.

MARIAN _ I am so thankful to his Metabolic Doctor, Dr. Siriwardena as well as his Ophthalmologist, Dr. Ali who gave my son his sight! SickKids is a place of miracles and hope...we thank you from the bottom of our hearts!

A message about heroes

What makes a real-life hero?

During our #SickKidsHero campaign this fall, many parents told us their hero was their child's health care team. Our clinicians often say it's their patients. For our researchers, it's frequently the scientists who came before them, laying the groundwork for the tremendous discoveries now at their fingertips. But the hero that everyone at The Hospital for Sick Children (SickKids) and SickKids Foundation share in common is you, our donor.

We are delighted to share many heroic stories throughout this annual report. Because of you, we had yet another record-breaking year, raising an unprecedented $125.9 million for child health care, research and learning. The year was highlighted by the wonderful and much anticipated opening of the Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning in September. We also funded nine new endowed chairs, completed renovations to our Ophthalmology Clinic and thanks to a major donation, launched the Medical Psychiatry Alliance in partnership with four other organizations. While we continued our efforts to support child health around the world, we also embarked on a new campaign in an area of growing need: the search for a cure for allergy. And importantly, our research discoveries continued to make a huge impact on the care of children here and around the world.

We were very pleased to welcome Dr. Mike Apkon as the new President and CEO of SickKids in January 2014, following the retirement of Mary Jo Haddad. Dr. Apkon is an accomplished champion of children's health with a vision for the future and the important role philanthropy will play in it. We look forward to partnering with him in our efforts in future years.

Thank you for being our hero as we all work together to create a better future for children. We encourage you to visit our website at www.sickkidsfoundation.com for more information and a video about your impact.

With profound gratitude,

John Francis
Chair

Ted Garrard
President and CEO

Another record year; $129.3 million invested in child health research, learning and care at SickKids and around the world.

You have an enormous impact on SickKids.

Your impact

$129.3 million was invested in our mission in 2013-2014

Care: $21.8 million

- for major equipment purchases, renovations and staff to ensure the hospital provides the best level of care possible and remains on the leading edge

Research: $99 million

- for project funding and infrastructure for the SickKids Research Institute, including the Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning, to allow our 2,000 researchers and research staff to push the frontiers of science

Learning: $4 million

- for training programs for the next generation of health care providers, to keep them at the top of their fields; 1,248 residents and clinical fellows received training last year

National and international projects: $4.5 million

- to boost child health across Canada and in close to 10 countries in Africa and the Caribbean

SickKids Foundation is the largest non-governmental funder of child health research, learning and care in Canada.

Donations represented 7% of overall funding support at the hospital last year.

New SickKids leader welcomed

The Hospital for Sick Children welcomed Dr. Mike Apkon as the new President and CEO.

Ukraine partnership launched |

A collaboration with the Children of Chernobyl Canadian Fund and Ukrainian Canadian Congress created a fellowship program to foster an exchange of expertise to improve child health in Ukraine.

Chinese Initiative |

A new fundraising campaign was launched in partnership with the Chinese-Canadian community to support the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

Inaugural Great Camp Adventure Walk |

More than 1,400 participants took part in the inaugural Canaccord Genuity Great Camp Adventure Walk, raising more than $1.3 million. Plans are underway for an even larger event this September.

13,000 donor heroes

September 17, 2013 was an historic day at SickKids as the Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning officially opened. This 21-storey tower, now home to 2,000 researchers, trainees and staff, represents a new chapter in global leadership in child health research at SickKids.

It took a community to help this $400-million research facility become a reality. With a fundraising goal of $200 million, more than 13,000 donors stepped forward to successfully complete the largest capital campaign in SickKids history. Peter Gilgan, Founder and CEO of Mattamy Homes, led the way with a transformational gift of $40 million.

“This campaign was fuelled by the generosity of the community who saw the potential of bringing child health researchers together under one roof.”

– Ted Garrard, President and CEO, SickKids Foundation

Mr. Gilgan was joined at the day-long festivities by Mary Jo Haddad, President and CEO of SickKids, Tim Hockey, Chair of the Campaign Cabinet, Ted Garrard, President and CEO of SickKids Foundation, and other philanthropic, government and community leaders. But the focus of the day was on the researchers and the patients and families whose lives will be transformed as a result of their work.

The Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning showcases the vital importance of research as the foundation of paediatric care. From the state-of-the-art laboratories and learning facilities to the multi-level common areas, the building was designed to enhance collaboration, providing opportunities for scientists and trainees from a variety of disciplines to work side by side. These opportunities will fuel innovation, accelerate progress and drive improvements in child health outcomes both locally and around the world.

Three-year-old Isla loves to run, jump and climb, and she spends a lot of time chasing after her rowdy older brothers. That high level of energy is just fine with her parents, because it means Isla is now a happy, healthy toddler after being treated successfully for ependymoma, a type of brain cancer. “We’re blessed to live so close to SickKids and have access to the best health care and research team in the world,” says Isla’s mother, Liz.

Research heroes

In the fight against brain cancer, chemotherapy is one of the most effective tools in a doctor's arsenal. But chemo has continually proven ineffective for one particular type of tumour, ependymoma. Why is that?

Dr. Michael Taylor and his team found an answer to that puzzling question this year thanks to donor dollars which support research. After looking at the DNA of patients with ependymoma, a disease usually diagnosed in infants, SickKids doctors discovered it has a different genetic cause than all other studied human cancers. They also identified an existing drug that may be effective with these patients. Clinical trials are now being planned to fully test the drug that may offer the solution.

Isla's parents are also throwing their support behind the effort. Scalar Decisions Inc., her father Paul's company, has pledged $250,000 towards ependymoma research at SickKids. While Isla was treated successfully for the disease through a combination of surgery and radiation, her parents are well aware it may come back. Ependymoma has a recurrence rate of 60 to 70 per cent.

SickKids excels at taking basic research discoveries – including findings about cancer stem cells and the molecular and genetic basis of childhood cancer – and propelling them into new treatments and therapies. We are home to the largest hospital-based child health research program in Canada.

Healthy and Happy: Year Two | Thanks to corporate partners, cause marketing campaigns, community events and private donations, more than $12 million was raised during May, the second annual SickKids Healthy and Happy campaign.

Foundation President honoured | SickKids Foundation President and CEO, Ted Garrard, was named Communicator of the Year by the International Association of Business Communicators, Toronto Chapter.

First Christmas Radiothon | The inaugural NEWSTALK 1010's Gift of Giving for SickKids holiday broadcast featured patients and families sharing stories about what it's like to spend the holidays at SickKids.

Scrubs | In its 12th year, Scrubs in the City raised more than $400,000 in support of the Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning.

Zachary is not your average 13-year-old. He likes video games and he loves the Toronto Maple Leafs, but in his spare time, he raises money for SickKids. As the founder of Do Something Sweet, Zachary has raised more than $37,000 to support the hospital. He was inspired by his sister, Maya, 9, who spent time at SickKids as an infant.

Heroic communities

Chinese-Canadian community supports SickKids NICU

Gabriella's family is grateful. After coming into the world eight weeks early, the little girl spent the first two months of her life in the SickKids Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU). Among her many tests were brain MRIs.

Premature babies sometimes forget to breathe and the MRIs were needed to determine if Gabriella had any brain damage. Gabriella grew and developed under the care of SickKids, and she is now a bubbly little chatterbox who is learning to walk with the assistance of a walker.

Fact: 70 per cent of pre-term babies will suffer undetected neurological damage without an MRI.

"We are so thankful that the NICU team at SickKids not only took excellent care of our daughter, but of us as well," says Gabriella's mom, Angel.

The family is delighted that SickKids is now working to take the care of premature infants one step further. SickKids Foundation is partnering with the Chinese-Canadian community to raise funds for an infant MRI scanner in the NICU. Infants currently have to travel outside of the unit to undergo this critical test. Having an MRI close by means children can be treated faster and more safely. It also opens the door to new research opportunities.

"We have the minds to make tremendous change," says Dr. Steven Miller, Division Head of Neurology at SickKids. "We just need the equipment."

Last year, the NICU treated 703 patients.

2013-2014:
A year of impact

Donors celebrated | Hundreds attended the annual Donor Hall to celebrate the tremendous support SickKids receives and experience the impact that philanthropy has on children.

#SickKidsHero | In a follow-up to 2012's "You Got It" commercial, a new video featuring SickKids kid Antonio launched the fall brand campaign, ultimately generating more than 348,000 views on YouTube.

New website launched | Visitors now enjoy a new look and a best-in-class website at sickkidsfoundation.com.

Record-breaking year | Thanks to the generous support of donors, SickKids raised more funds than ever before to transform child health: $125.9 million.

Heroes

joining forces

improving medical and psychiatric health

SickKids has a long history of forming partnerships to maximize patient care, and this year was no exception.

Prompted by an incredible $20-million donation from a private donor, we launched the Medical Psychiatry Alliance in January. This exciting $60-million collaboration with the Ontario government, the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health, Trillium Health Partners and the University of Toronto will support patients with – or at risk of developing – simultaneous mental and physical illness.

“The Medical Psychiatry Alliance will ensure access to the right level of care, at the right time and place, through improved collaboration amongst medical and mental health services within the hospital and greater community,” says Dr. Mike Apkon, SickKids President and CEO.

Angie _ My son who is 4 years old was diagnosed with Nephrotic Syndrome.

Most people would believe that he is the one who needs the help and the cure for his disease. However, everyday he is the one smiling, enjoying each moment and helping the rest of us around him.

International hero

Dr. Isaac Odame has seen close up the devastating impact of sickle cell disease. As a native of Ghana, he became very aware that up to one of every 50 children born in sub-Saharan Africa has the painful blood disorder and that more than half die before the age of five.

In Ontario, his advocacy helped ensure all newborns are now screened for the disease. And most recently at SickKids, the haematologist has begun setting his sights internationally. He is partnering with researchers and doctors from Africa, the Caribbean, India, the Middle East, Europe and North and South America to improve the quality of life and reduce deaths among children with sickle cell.

“Real change will not only have a positive impact on children born with sickle cell, but on whole communities and regions,” he says.

“Through collaboration, great things can happen, both at SickKids and for patients around the globe.”

Dr. Odame’s efforts are part of the growing footprint being created by SickKids around the world. In recent years, donors have also helped fund the hospital’s capacity building work in Africa and in the Caribbean.

The SickKids-Caribbean Initiative itself is already close to its $8-million fundraising goal.

Compassionate heroes

Pradeep and his daughter, Ambika, had an unbreakable bond. They cherished their quality time together. Pradeep knew that losing her was going to be difficult. And it was. Which is what made the support of the Paediatric Advanced Care Team (PACT) at SickKids all the more important.

Ambika, initially diagnosed with a rare form of bone cancer, developed heart failure and then later relapsed. She passed away in December 2013 at the age of 15.

PACT is a vital part of the circle of care at SickKids, providing the expertise, resources and direct care needed to support children and families like Ambika and Pradeep.

Dr. Adam Rapoport spends 70 per cent of his time listening. As medical director of the Paediatric Advanced Care Team (PACT) at SickKids, his role is to ensure that children with potentially life-limiting diseases and their families have the best quality of life possible and receive support throughout their illness, at the end of life and into bereavement.

“Doctors choose their profession because they want to save lives,” says Dr. Rapoport, “but as we go through training, we quickly appreciate that this can’t always be so.”

Dr. Rapoport and his team of doctors, nurses, counsellors and researchers collaborate with caregivers and volunteers across the hospital and in the community to ensure children and families can access the care they need whether they are at home, the hospice or the hospital.

“By its nature, palliative care is an interdisciplinary specialty which requires the insight and support of many,” says Dr. Rapoport.

And the specialists have a compelling vision for the future: to create a palliative care program at SickKids that rivals the best in the world. The Albert and Temmy Latner Family Foundation has already contributed $1 million to help support that vision.

“We need to provide the highest-quality, most compassionate care,” says Dr. Rapoport. And because PACT is already the busiest hospital-based service of its kind in the country, with 90 per cent of its patients coming from outside Toronto, the impact of such a system will be felt by families across Ontario and Canada.

Key to the new vision is a greater focus on community outreach, research and education to train the next generation of palliative care experts.

Dr. Adam Rapoport (centre) with his team

Nine-month-old Aurora is courageously waiting for a pancreas, liver and small bowel transplant at SickKids. She's under the loving care of her parents, Nicole and Harold, and the staff of the Group for the Improvement of Intestinal Function and Treatment at SickKids, the only program of its kind in Canada.

Rowyn's parents look at Dr. Agostino Pierro as a hero. Thanks to him, their one-year-old daughter is a happy and healthy little girl. Diagnosed with a rare condition in which a baby's esophagus doesn't develop properly, Rowyn underwent surgery by Dr. Pierro when she was just three days old in one of the hospital's newly renovated operating suites. The new suite contained updated technology that helped reduce her pain and recovery time. Fourteen days after surgery, Rowyn was able to feed on her own, and 10 days after that, the family was thrilled to finally be able to take their daughter home.

With close to 12,000 surgeries performed annually at SickKids on some of the sickest children in the world, the need for an expansion and update to operating suites at the hospital has never been greater.

Operating suites at SickKids are aging. Built 25 years ago, their current configurations do not allow for the innovative technologies required to revolutionize paediatric surgery. Much of the equipment is outdated.

Heroes of the Operating Room

SickKids is addressing the redevelopment project step by step. Thanks to the generosity of Lindt & Sprüngli and the Herbie Fund, two new operating suites will be retrofitted, joining the one suite that has already been upgraded.

Efforts are now underway to raise funds for the retrofit of the 13 remaining suites at a cost of $1.5 million per suite.

“The redevelopment projects will allow us to do new and different kinds of surgery, which will ultimately result in improved outcomes for children,” says Dr. James Wright, SickKids Surgeon-in-Chief.

Phoebe, Paul and their mom, Dr. Amy Kaiser

Heroic investments

Fact: 300,000 Canadian children have allergies, a number that is growing.

Paul and Phoebe have missed a few birthday cakes in their lives. When at a friend's party, they've sometimes had to play it safe.

"They understand it's for their safety, but there are times I'm sure they've wanted to be carefree," says their mother, Dr. Amy Kaiser.

Phoebe, 8, is allergic to peanuts and Paul, 13, is allergic to both peanuts and tree nuts. Exposure could cause a life-threatening reaction.

"We have to be very careful about what we eat and where we go," says their mother. "It puts a layer of caution on our lives."

The family is now stepping forward to try to change the future, not only for their children, but for children like them. Dr. Kaiser and her husband, Ken Rotman, recently donated $1 million to help launch a $6.9 million fundraising campaign to establish a comprehensive allergy program at SickKids.

"Realistically, our hope is that within the next decade, we will be in a place where kids who have an exposure will not have their life threatened," says Dr. Kaiser. "SickKids is on the cutting edge in so many areas of research and health care. We truly believe that allergy is a place where SickKids can impact."

Impacting Care: Hospital Chairs

For more than 20 years, Dr. Mark Crawford has spent his time easing the pain of SickKids kids. This year, he took his efforts one step further in his new role as the Curtis Joseph/Harold Groves Chair in Anesthesia & Pain Medicine. Dr. Crawford is one of nine outstanding SickKids doctors and researchers appointed to endowed Chairs last year, thanks to the incredible generosity of our donors. The funding allows this esteemed group to make even greater contributions to their fields and bring us ever closer to improving the future of child health.

VOLUNTEER AND PHILANTHROPIC HEROES: Thank you JOHN FRANCIS and ROBERT HARDING

In June 2014, John Francis and Robert (Bob) Harding presided over their final Board meetings: John, as Chair of SickKids Foundation's Board of Directors after 11 years on the board, and Bob, as Chair of The Hospital for Sick Children's Board of Trustees after nine years with SickKids. Their outstanding leadership has ensured SickKids continues to advance its vision Healthier Children. A Better World.™

Beyond so generously offering their leadership skills, John and Bob have also set generous philanthropic examples through their remarkable support of the Peter Gilgan Centre for Research and Learning, endowed Chairs and other vital SickKids initiatives.

Dairy Queen is part of a dedicated group of Children's Miracle Network partners who have collectively raised more than $60 million for SickKids since 1992.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of Dairy Queen's partnership in Canada. During this time, Dairy Queen has raised a remarkable sum of more than $25 million for Canadian children's hospitals, including $3.3 million for SickKids.

The support of Children's Miracle Network partners like Dairy Queen is critical to the hospital's ability to respond to urgent patient needs and promising new research opportunities. Through a variety of programs and special events, including their signature Miracle Treat Day, Dairy Queen locations from Burlington to Belleville and as far north as Chelmsford raise vital funds for SickKids.

For Dairy Queen Operators and Corporate Office Staff like those pictured below, supporting Children's Miracle Network is about bringing hope and healing to sick and injured children in their local communities.

“ LCBO employees have supported SickKids Foundation for 30 years, and value the specialized health care SickKids provides to children and their families. Each December, through our province-wide network of 639 stores, the LCBO Giving Back In Our Community campaign raises funds for SickKids and other organizations. In 2013, our generous customers and committed staff raised a record total of almost $4 million, of which more than $1.2 million was donated to SickKids Foundation. ” – Bob Peter, President & CEO, LCBO

“ Shoppers Drug Mart has been focused on the health and well-being of Canadians for more than 50 years. As a store owner and pharmacist, I am proud of the Shoppers Drug Mart WOMEN program, which supports the Motherisk Helpline. It is just one example of Shoppers Drug Mart's dedication to the promotion and improvement of the health of Canadians—extending beyond the pharmacy services and care we provide each and every day. ”

“ As an innovative company, known for our exacting standards, we are pleased to support the hospital's efforts to revolutionize patient care and achieve new benchmarks in paediatric surgery through the redevelopment of the hospital's operating suites. We hope the contributions we make to this project through the Lindt Chocolate Masters Golf Tournament will help patients heal faster, stay healthy and get back to enjoying their childhood. ”

“ Through the LivWise Foundation, we are supporting SickKids in providing children with the opportunity to enjoy a healthier and brighter future. It is also a way to show our appreciation to the hospital for the exemplary care and support that the staff provided for our daughter, Olivia, and our family. “ Inspired by the memory of my daughter and other children who left us suddenly and far too soon, The RDV Foundation seeks to help families suffering from the loss of a child. Through a broad range of initiatives, including studies on family grief and palliative care training programs, SickKids has been a partner in our efforts. Working together, we are ensuring those facing this unimaginable burden do not have to do so alone. ”

We've told you about our heroes. This year, you also told us about yours. Our online community is powerful and passionate. And it continues to grow daily. Thank you to our donors and our online community for all you do to create the #SickKidsHero story.

 116,000

Maria and Cheng are two real-life heroes who, as Patient Service Aides, are part of the circle of care at SickKids.

MT @sab_danz Our illnesses broke us down, but @kails_xoxo built me up. She's my best friend thanks to SickKids & my #SickKidsHero

MT @Shanni173: Miranda taught me there is always a bright side to every situation & to never give up. She'll always be my hero #SickKidsHero

HEATHER _ My hero is my daughter having fought and beaten cancer twice in her 10 years.

LISA _ My 8 month old son is my #sickkidshero! He is living with half a heart and has had 3 open heart surgeries and a pacemaker implanted at SickKids.

AMANDA _ All the nurses who help me bring my own little hero home #sickkidshero

ANNE _ Dr. David Fisher and his team along with all the nurses at SickKids... Amazing people work at SickKids. Thank you for everything you do for kids.

JULIE _ Dr. Azzie is my SickKids hero. I'm positive he has Superman cape under those scrubs.

ANITA _ Our daughter, Ella, and her amazing oncologist, Furqan Shaikh are my heroes.

ANITA _ My #SickKidsHero is my now 15 month old son Rylan who against all odds, survived long enough with a rare genetic disease called HLH to receive a lifesaving bone marrow transplant at SickKids.

My sons gave me the ultimate gift of appreciation for life and what it holds. They taught me to be fearless, to stand strong, to fight when everyone else stands down.
– Hailey, mom to SickKids kids Rowan and Nate, above

thank you
